

Your Patient Specimen Source from Discovery to Diagnosis™

ProMedDx is the leading supplier of human biologicals for the In-Vitro Diagnostics and Biotechnology industries. Our BioRepository contains an extensive collection of high quality serum, plasma and tissue from normal and disease-state individuals. All specimens are collected under IRB approved protocols in accordance to HIPAA regulations.

ProMedDx also offers a variety of services to support all major areas of assay development and validation. We will manage your clinical study from site initiation through project close out. And our BioStorage service will ensure real-time access to all your specimens stored on-site at our secure facility.

Please visit www.promeddx.com for further information.